SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1905.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

3,260

The silence concerning municipal politics might be considered ominous some years, but this year it indicates apathy.

We should think that the Boston newspaper which printed a front page "score" story yesterday, dated from Barre, Vt., would blush a deep crimson.

While one cannot help admiring the pluck and perseverance of this woman, Mrs. Bickenderfer of Stamford, Conn., who has been working for weeks in behalf of Mary M. Rogers, condemned to be hanged for murder next Friday, yet it appears to most people that the "appeal to the women of America" is like shooting into the air. The women of America can do nothing to prevent the hanging of Mrs. Rogers. Sentiment stirred up by such an appeal will have no weight in turning aside her fate. Neither would an appeal to the men of America. An appeal to the supreme court of Vermont is the only logical step.

GOOD READING FOR BOYS.

Volumes, almost, have been written, and gallons of printers' ink have been spread, in condemnation of the dime novel habit of the young men and the little boys of the country. And yet there is probably no diminution in the useless habit. As many "Deadwood Dick" tales are imposed upon the public by our most imaginative writers and as many boys persist in reading them as there ever were. All the rant against these pieces of rot amounts to nothing and is not worth the time and energy expended by those who mean well, but whose efforts are like blowing against the wind. It is useless to simply talk against the practice. The fact is that the minds of the boys turn naturally toward tales of adventure and they will not be satisfied until they get them. With that fact recognized, then the duty of the parent or guardian becomes imperative. The parent or guardian must train the inclination of the boys, not by shutting them off from reading tales of adventure, for that would be simply adding fuel to the fire, but by putting before them books of adventure which are proper, and which do not inflame the young minds with an overmastering ambition to don the sombrero and the fringed leggins, and, armed to the teeth, to go forth to do battle with the Indians. Almost all dime novels do that. They produce upon the minds a sort of frenzy for imitation. The hero which they try to follow is generally clothed in armor and insolence, sweeping everything before him, observed of all observers, the proud possessor of a tongue which cannot be outspoken and an aim which never fails.

Such is the substance that the boys are storing away in their minds, useless, poisonous matter. To counteract the evil influence should be the aim of every parent. And if the fathers and the mothers provide their children with proper books of adventure there would be less criminals growing up and there would be less inmates of our penal institutions. The burden of suppressing the habit rests upon those immediately in charge. Public libraries and the like are doing a small part but their influence is as nothing compared with that which might be exerted by the parents. Let the latter take the matter home to themselves.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

To Help the World Along.
We're living in an age of doubt,
And, if for woe or weal,
No more with simple faith we put
Our shoulders to the wheel.

But in these rapid auto days
We count that help too slow—
We all crawl underneath to find
Just why it doesn't go. —Judge.

Improving.
She—I think I've been quite economical.
Her Husband—Do you?
She—Certainly. I'm sure we haven't run in debt half as much as last month—Brooklyn Life.

Change.
"Do you think this weather will ever change?"
"Sure," answered the morose citizen.
"I'll probably be worse before night."
—Washington Star.

Fifty new books have been added to the Ladies' Circulating Library.

Mrs. D. B. Smith, who has been quite ill with rheumatic fever, remains about the same.

Mrs. Annie Buckley Bailey of Berlin is caring for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckley.

Forty couples attended the dancing school held at the Pleasant View House Thursday evening.

Miss Lotta K. Nutting, teacher in the Lane district, closed a very successful term of school Friday.

Will K. Wright returned home from Barton Landing Friday, to remain with his parents for an indefinite time.

A large number of Harry Laird's friends went to Orange to spend a very pleasant evening at his home Friday.

Charles Wheeler returned from Burlington Thursday, bringing with him three horses for H. S. Parks' livery stable.

Mrs. L. C. Baldwin, who has a flock of 25 hens, reports that during one week they laid ninety eggs. Who can beat this?

Paul W. Labree of Marshfield has moved his family into one of L. F. Portney's tenements on School street. Mr. Labree is working in the lumber woods at Woodbury.

At the Congregational church social held in the vestry of the church Friday evening, a large number were present and the evening was spent very pleasantly in playing game and other amusements.

A pleasant evening was passed at Mrs. R. D. Richards hall Thursday evening, playing whist. There were five tables, the highest being won by J. A. Foss and Mrs. D. W. Moses. Refreshments were served.

Rev. L. F. Fortney goes to East Corinth Saturday to preach in that place on Sunday, and expects to attend the Universalist Ministers' meeting held in Woodville, N. H., Monday; also to visit old parishioners in West Corinth, on Tuesday.

EAST BARRE.

Mrs. W. C. Nye has been ill for a week with a severe cold. She is now somewhat recovered.

The Y. P. C. T. U. went to Barre last night, where they were entertained by the Young Peoples Union there.

The breaking of a hydrant near Blanchard's shed caused a great loss of water from our reservoir. Boys will have a skating rink as one result.

A social for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid society will be held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Eastman next Tuesday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

There is still talk about the social dance given last Friday by Herb Whitcomb and Jo Comoli. There were 65 couples present. It is hoped there will be another such event soon.

The pastor will conduct the services. Morning topic, "Life's Perfect Plan." Sunday school at 12 m. There will be but one evening service, a Christian Endeavor missionary meeting, at 7 o'clock, for which an interesting programme has been prepared.

ORANGE.

A Modern Institution!

Its Powers! Its Advantages!

The Trust Company is a modern institution. It came into existence to meet the needs and conditions of the modern business world. Trust Companies were unknown a hundred years ago. Today they extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific, handling each year a constantly increasing volume of business promptly, accurately, satisfactorily.

The Trust Company has wide powers. It is at once a Commercial Bank and a Savings Bank. It may be more than these, for it may act as Executor or Trustee of Estates, as Assignee, Receiver or Guardian in the same manner and subject to the same control by the Court as in the case of an individual. The GRANITE SAVINGS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY has been duly empowered to handle this class of business, and offers its services to the community at large.

Changing Conditions.

Conditions have changed in a hundred years. A century ago a man wishing to provide for the welfare of his family in the event of his death must, of necessity, name an individual to carry out his wishes. Some people do it that way now. It isn't the best way, however, and the trend is ever toward the Trust Company with its paid-up capital, its surplus and its staff of capable officials trained in the science of accounts, experienced in business, used to the handling of large interests and with knowledge as to the safe investment of trust funds. The individual has his personal interests—things of first importance, to which the handling of trusts or the settlement of estates must ever be a secondary matter. The Trust Company handles trusts and settles estates as a part of its day's work—they are matters of FIRST IMPORTANCE.

The Progress of a Century.

A hundred years ago our ancestors rode in the stage-coach or on horseback. We of a later day find the railroad all too slow to carry us to our destination. Our grandparents got along very nicely with the tallow candle. We demand the electric light. In the days of Paul Revere information was communicated by means of the beacon signal. Today the telephone, the telegraph and "wireless" bring to us almost instantly the news of the civilized world. It is simply a matter of progress, of development.

A hundred years ago the power to act as Executor, Trustee or Guardian was delegated to the individual. Today the Trust Company is fast assuming these duties and, as a writer of financial text-books has well said, "THE TRUST COMPANY IS AS FAR IN ADVANCE OF THE OLD-TIME TRUSTEE AS THE MODERN MACHINE IS AHEAD OF HAND LABOR."

The Trust Company makes a BUSINESS of this class of work, the individual does it only incidentally, giving to it such odds and ends of his time as are not required for anything else.

Which is the better, the careful, systematic service of the well-managed Trust Company, or the kind of service so often given by the individual, who may be—but often is not—qualified to satisfactorily fulfill his trust?

OUR TRUST DEPARTMENT IS AT YOUR SERVICE.
